The result is players that make every touch and every tackle more precise than ever. Players follow the ball better and react quicker to opponents. Defenders move better and attackers move faster. PES 2019 introduces "HyperReal Motion" that uses real-life player tracking data to power player movement and reactions. The result is players that react faster, jump higher, and move more fluidly and freely. About Sensors at FIFA & PES 2019 The FIFA team developed a series of sensors, including a proprietary VR Camera System, at the behest of the PS4 Pro to power player movement, reactions and animations. It was designed, tested and used in partnership with the Electronic Arts Sports Labs to ensure the best performance possible for FIFA players on the Pro and Standard Edition of the PS4 Pro. The PES 2019 team designed their own VR Camera System, as well as their own camera rig, with their own handball position, similar to what used to power player position in previous PES titles. Further, the PES team provided input on the placement of the sensors on the players, as well as their movement. About FIFA and PES Sights The PS4 Pro features three high-resolution RGB (Red, Green and Blue) Sony GMV CX300 (Resolution: 4K / 3840x2160p) cameras, each paired with a Sony GMV AR100 (Resolution: 1080p) digital camera that provide a high-resolution monocular view with a wide angle of view from the camera positions. The PS4 Pro's camera views can be viewed in 2K (2048x1080p) and 4K (3840x2160p) resolutions. For example, the two cameras operating in 2K mode provides an approximately 5.5-degree wide angle view. All camera settings and resolutions can be adjusted via the system-level camera settings menu. In addition, the players can manually adjust the camera settings and views via the system-level menu.
